Physical Appraisal: Ms. Grafton is in very good health, whilst she is not as adroit or as capable in raw tests of dexterity or strength she has retained a very high level of fitness during the last few years and looks younger than her thirty-one years of age. Reflexes and fine motor skills are above average as is basic endurance, as noted elsewhere due to various reasons Ms. Grafton is able to run in almost any footwear. Two factors however may impact on effectiveness in the field, they are related in that Ms. Grafton wakes easily and subsequently prizes that sleep she gains the latter is often exhibited as irritability. There are a few minor upgrades already in place, these will be superseded.

Mental Appraisal: Ms. Grafton shows a number of the classical traits found within a certain class of operative. She shows a great faith in her own abilities in inappropriate situations and shows a nervous habit of continually making minor modifications to equipment when distracted. As can be expected, Ms. Grafton has developed a code of behavior which is professional and in many respects ethical. In her current freelance work she has stated frequently that she will not work for a competitor for three months after the current contract has expired. Further any self created equipment is frequently marked with a μ , the reason for this is not as yet clear. Also Ms. Grafton when it is not inappropriate, prefers to wear at least one item of red clothing and some form of heeled footwear, these are not considered problematic currently. There is however a marked tendency to wishing to be left alone, this is not uncommon amongst some twins.

Background Information.

History.

Born as one of a pair of twins, younger than her sister by fifty-three minutes, on November 26 1993, in Haifa general hospital to Alan and Rachel Schwartzstein at 02:24am. Ms. Grafton grew up in the isolated Hazia Kibbutz to the west of the Israeli city Haifa with her sister Angela amongst approximately one thousand other Kibbutzim. It was during the al-Aqsa (Second) Intifada of 2000 that Alan Schwartzstein was killed whilst serving as a reserve in the IDF Golan Brigade. As the conflict escalated Rachel emigrated to the Australian city of Perth, remarrying in 2002, to Jake Grafton and is still resident in the Victoria Park residential area of that city. From 2000 until 2011 both twins were resident within the Perth area entering the education system there as required.

From 2011 through to 2013, Ms. Grafton served in the IDF as part of the Nitzan Battalion of the Israeli Field Intelligence Corps, leaving mandatory service in the July of that year. After graduation from University College London, gaining a 2:1 in Languages and Electronic Engineering as part of a joint degree, Ms. Grafton spent three years as part of the Translation staff at the Israeli London Embassy, adding a Masters degree in Linguistics also from UCL, in the process. In 2019 Ms. Grafton was transferred to the embassy in Beirut, where she remained until 2023.

Since last year Ms. Grafton has gained a small reputation as a skilled freelancer, offering both skills as a photographer and media specialist or as a translator and data expert. It was the latter that was flagged by our associate, due to her involvement as base controller during the private Luftgarm Hijack, where she denied the hijackers the majority of their communications and directed the final storming of the plane.

Currently Ms. Grafton is working in the San Diego area, creating infomercial data-projects for the cross-border services.

Family.

Alan Schwartzstein (Deceased). Biological father, died in the Second Intifada whilst serving as a reservist in the IDF.

Rachel Grafton née Rosen. Mother, previously married to Alan Schwartzstein but remarried after his death to Australian national Jake Grafton in 2002, she is mother to three children, twins by Schwartzstein and a son by Grafton. Born in 1968 in Tel Aviv to a career army officer and wife, moved to the Hazia Kibbutz on marriage to Alan Schwartzstein, leaving in 2000 upon his death taking her daughters Angela and Hazel with her.

Shorter than either of her daughters, Rachel Grafton still bears a resemblance to them, with here bright blue eyes and fading blonde hair now silvery she commands her home as any good matriarch will do. Though she admires her daughters' path through life she is disappointed that one of them has not settled down and started a family as yet.

Jake Grafton. Step-Father. Now retired former Chief Operations Officer for Fremantle Mining based out of Perth. Often utilized as a trouble-shooter in addition to his usual duties. Retired in 2022 after seeing all his children through university, married Rachel Grafton in 2002 after a two year spell where se served as his housekeeper and later as his secretary as he spent more time away. He has two children, a son by Rachel Grafton and an elder daughter due to a liaison in the Philippines.

Large and soft spoken, slow to anger but terrible when his fuse has expired, Jake Grafton often tries to project the outdated Australian stereotype to cover for his innate business skills. Blue eyed and black haired he is currently still fit and tanned despite 'taking it easy' surfing off the West Coast.

Angela Rachel Emerald Grafton. Elder Twin. Driven and focused, Angela Grafton has been engaged in a rivalry with her twin for the past three decades. This seems to be partly normal sibling behavior and partly driven by events when younger, neither is willing to discuss it but possible causes may include that Angela Grafton is fractionally shorter than her sister and has a slightly more abrasive personality leading to a loss of face in High School.

Other than the slight height differential, a figure that is even more toned than her sisters and a marginally darker shade of hair color than her sister, Angela Graft is everything that the word identical implies, including a mole that is in the same place on her back. Differences in personality however are more apparent, less inclined to sit and wait Angela Grafton has always pushed herself, as evidenced in her IDF service where she gained distinction as one of the first female snipers fielded by any major combat force since World War 2. She served three terms before leaving the IDF in 2020, since then she has offered herself as a gun for hire. Current whereabouts unknown.

Mike Grafton. Half-Brother. Recently completed his third year at Cambridge University (Downing College) where he has been studying Law and is projected to get a First.

Studious and slight, he wears glasses despite not having any eyesight defects and is a capable racquets player. Current plans involve a three year internship at a major London/NY Law Corporation, aiming towards a higher degree at a later date.

Education.

Early schooling was conducted in the communal facilities within the Hazia Kibbutz, following along standardized Kibbutzim guidelines for the late 1990's.

2000-2004. Arbor Grove Primary School, Ellenbrook, Perth. Western Australia. Standard Australian Primary education.

2004-2009. Helena College Senior School, Glen Forrest, Perth. Western Australia. Private Day School. Secondary education, passed all subjects required to progress to Matriculation College.

2009-2011. Helena College Senior School, Glen Forrest, Perth. Western Australia. Private Day School. Tertiary Matriculation Education. Gained the Western Australia Certificate of Education (approximate to our High School Diplomas or the old UK A-Levels)

2011-2013. Occupational training within the IDF. Field Qualified on Sensors, Communications and Electronic Warfare, gained operational status as a forward observer/laser spotter designator and basic arms training. Merit passes on all the above.

2013-2016. University College London, Gower Street, London. WC1E 6BT. UK. Studied joint Honors degree in Modern Languages and Electronic Engineering, gained a 2:1 BA in 2016

2016-2019. University College London, Gower Street, London. WC1E 6BT. UK. Part time study towards MA in Linguistics, which was awarded 2019 and she left formal education at this time.

Training.

Through either self study, as hobbies or as part of undocumented training, Ms. Grafton has acquired a considerable array of complementing skills in areas related but not limited to her formal training. Some undoubtedly have come about due to the nature of her previous employment whilst others may merely be because she has seen a need to gain them.

Skills such as driving, first aid and land navigation can easily be seen as part of basic IDF training as can the skills to utilize a gun and some form of unarmed combat, though the development of Savate as her preferred style is unusual, though for a time it was popular in Australia. Corporate skills are also relatively obviously gained as anyone in any kind of business needs to gain them or have the wealth to utilize specialists. Less simply pinpointed are skills in photography and the media skills to follow them through, it is interesting however that this facet has flowed on into her current real world public face. It is natural to suppose that interests into other areas of Electronics would follow during her employment in various embassies, it has been noted that riding was a popular pastime for girls of a certain age and status. The origin of less formally taught skills can only be guessed at.

Employment History.

Israeli Defense Forces, 2011-2013.

As a current holder of Israeli citizenship in 2011, Ms. Grafton was given a mandatory call up to serve a two year tour within the IDF. As a listed specialist in a non-combat support position assigned to the Field Intelligence Corps. Ms. Grafton reached the rank of Rabat, equivalent to Corporal and was given training in various operations. As an ELINT unit as opposed to CybINT unit they were tasked with numerous duties, including AEW, ECM and target designation for all forces involved in conflict at that time. Two Brigade level citations were awarded during this period.

London Embassy of Israel, 2013-2016.

Receptionist and filing clerk, reporting to the senior in-house administration management and security team. Additional ad hoc responsibilities included acting as security when required and as occasional comm. night shift supervisor. Part Time Position with quarters within the Embassy as required.

London Embassy of Israel, 2016-2019.

Translator with the Arabic division within the Embassy, reporting to the Head of Division and working on decoded signals traffic and when necessary providing real time translations of media reports or as part of a delegation. Whilst not trained as such, informal duties included diplomatic protection in a last line capacity, continued security duties as required and authentication of information by physical means. Responsibilities also continued regarding communications though only in response to specific materials and commensurate with her translation duties.

Beirut Embassy of Israel, 2019-2023.

Senior translator and specialist planner. Known to have helped plan and possibly execute a number of operations in Syria from the Embassy in Lebanon. Main focus was on physical and non data-protected information including satellite and long range photographic assets. Worked as key translator of decrypted materials and expanded her understanding of the regional cultures and added further languages to her repertoire. Left Civil Service employment early in 2023, in response to a change of Government in Israel itself.

Freelancer, 2023-Present.

Specific details of contracts are not available.

After leaving the Embassy service, Ms. Grafton utilizing the severance pay she had accrued to purchase a small selection of equipment and began a freelance career as Glamour Photographer and when requested as a respected translator within certain circles. This was a steady income and allowed for a number of short term contacts to be made.

Of note is the normally minor incident regarding the hijacking of the Luftgarm jet. Whilst as you know very few details have emerged it was this event that brought Ms. Grafton to the attention of one of our representatives. Again information is hazy but common understanding is that Ms. Grafton ran the base side of operations, providing both telemetry, secure communications and real time information as appropriate to her team whilst disrupting those of the hijackers and their support team.

As a result there were minimal injuries and the hijackers and their support were dealt with efficiently.

Profile.

Professional Life.

As has been noted before Ms. Grafton maintains as much of a professional façade as possible, sometimes holding herself aloof from others until she is certain of their motives. She does maintain a professional conduct and always attempts to make sure a job is done with a little fuss as possible, if ultimately the task at hand proves due to events to be insoluble then she will Endeavour to complete as much as is feasible and report the alteration of circumstances as soon as is feasible. As part of her personal ethics, she will not work for a competitor company to one she has worked for recently for a period of three months, to her mind this appears fair and has built her up a reputation for fairness. This has been enhanced by here stipulation that whilst one corporation or other employer is paying her she will not take a second contract without her present employer agreeing. A number of possible avenues of work have been closed by these two factors.

They also make Ms. Grafton a useful asset for establishing data pathways for other operatives into areas where they normally do not exist.

Personal Life.

Ms. Grafton is a private individual, with the likes associated with that, there is however a sense of knowing that there are times for social interaction and these have been used to gain access to locations normally unavailable. Currently there is no lover or regular boyfriend, though there have been in the past, her schedule seems to preclude this.

Whilst not a devout Jew, Ms. Grafton continues as time and work commitments allow to observe both the Shabbat and attend services where possible. When not able to do she is known to be a generous giver to charity.

Presently living and working in San Diego, renting a condo in the Chula Vista district.
